PREFACE.

MY friend and fellow student, Mr. Frederick Leigh Gardner, has asked me to write a short introductory note to this Third Volume of his Bibliotheca. The first volume upon Rosicrucian and second upon Astrological Books have supplied in a very compendious and useful form, Catalogues of all available works on those subjects: under each heading were supplied the name of the Author and the full title of the book, with date and place of publication; while in numerous instances very interesting personal comments and antiquarian notes were added.

This present volume provides a very complete Catalogue of the Histories of English Freemasons' Lodges; it mentions in fact every such work as could be found after months of research.

Our late Brother, W. J. Hughan, the notable Masonic Historian, published many years ago (1892) a short list of Lodge Histories, but such works were at that time very few in comparison with the number which have since appeared.

The Masonic interest in these works depends greatly upon the antiquity of the Consecration of the Lodge referred to: the Minutes of the early years of our oldest Lodges contain many details of great interest, in regard to procedure, mode of constitution, the working of the several degrees and the powers of the Worshipful Master, and his Officers and of customs now long since abandoned.

Histories of Lodges of modern constitution rarely contain details of importance in regard to history or procedure, however interesting they may be to surviving brethren who are mentioned therein. For a great deal more than half a century all English Lodges have been worked in almost strict accordance with the regulations of the Book of Constitutions, and so a narrative of their proceedings consists of little but business details, lists of names, and perhaps speeches of Masters and Grand Lodge Officers.

There still remain a great number of very old Lodges whose Histories have not yet been written, and although it is unfortunately true that in many instances the oldest Minute Books have been lost or destroyed, there are some Lodges whose records are extant and yet await a literary Past Master to edit and publish them. Our brethren should bear in mind that all missing records have not been destroyed although lost, and that such volumes may be recovered from old book-shops and the lumber rooms of country houses.

Some notes of interest in relation to old Lodges whose Histories have not yet been printed may be found scattered through the Masonic works of Brothers Oliver, Mackenzie, Hughan, Lane, Sadler, and also in the historical essays contributed to the many volumes of the "Ars Quatuor Coronatorum," edited by the late Brother G. W. Speth, and by our surviving Brothers W. H. Rylands and W. J. Songhurst.

It is a great source of pleasure to me that these volumes of the Bibliotheca Rosicruciana, Astrologica, and of English Lodge Histories should have been produced by my R. W. Frater Frederick Leigh Gardner, Hon. 9° and Past Secretary General of the Rosicrucian Society of England.

I am glad to say that a Fourth Volume, a Bibliotheca Alchymica, or Catalogue of all extant works treating of physical and spiritual Alchymy is in course of preparation, and I feel sure will be of the greatest value and the widest interest.

WILLIAM WYNN WESTCOTT, IX°.,

Supreme Magus, S.R.I.A.

Bibliotheca Masonica.

An attempt at compiling a History of Freemasonry in Stafford, to which is prefixed a short Sketch of the History of Masonry in England from the earliest times, by T. Ward Chalmers, P.M. 12mo. Stafford, 1882.

Collation (viii) 84 pp.

A History of Freemasonry in the Province of Staffordshire, by Frederic W. Willmore, P.M. Folio. Wolverhampton and London, 1905. 174 pp. and 2 plates.

A fatality seems to have attended the authorship of this Work; it was commenced by a Bro. Willmore who unfortunately died in 1902; it was then continued by Bro. Dunbar Steen, who also died in 1905, and the work of completion fell into the hands of Colonel Walter Walker, who brought it to a successful termination.
