Social Control

"For a machine to run smoothly and predictably, its parts must be standard and hence replaceable, features which contribute, respectively, to modern depersonalization and anxiety."

- Charles Eisenstein

"Eugenics is suggested by the most diverse minds as the most adequate and thorough avenue to the solution of racial, political and social problems."

Margret Sanger

Registered Replication Reports:

Registered Replication Reports consist of multi-lab, high-quality replications of important experiments in psychological science along with comments by the authors of the original studies

Scientists tried to replicate 100 psychology experiments and 64% failed

"The maniacal lunatics in control of our society know exactly how human beings tick and they are masters at manipulation."

Bruce McDonald

"social control = enslavement"

The logical conclusion would be, if giving up some rights produces a better society, giving up all our rights would produce a perfect society." – Citizens' Rule Book

To govern in MICE culture involves psyops to assure conformity to the nomocracy.

Mechanisms are created to mold behavior to the paradigm of policy makers.

Boards of Directors create images of acceptable citizen behavior to mimic.

The most successful behavioral modification is done through subconscious methods as the thought modified individual is unaware of the behavioral modifications.

Psychopathic Delusions of Grandeur of the Social Engineer

"It will be found, as men grow more tolerant of their instincts, that many uniformities now insisted upon are useless and even harmful." - Bertrand Russell

wisdom is a danger to society

Corporate media totally saturates consciousness.

Monopolized corporate media defines the issues to be discussed and analyzed.

Corporate power is dependent on the ability of corporate media to manipulate truth.

Mercantilism spawned MICE popular culture.

Thorstein Veblen's "Theory of the Leisure Class" (1899) established the notion of conspicuous consumption.

As a political economist Thorstein Veblen understood consumer desire and the commercial logic that powers manufactured desire.

"As we deep-sixed worn croquet mallets, rusted weed-whackers, magazine back issues and untold objects that no longer had meaning in our current lives, we began to feel lighter, freer. With each item sold or given away we began liberating ourselves from an outmoded way of living that had been weighing us down in more ways than mere bulk. In this journey, we moved away from the idea that "we are what we have." - Ciji Ware

The only lasting, dependable security comes from controlling less not more, opening up to life, loosening rigid boundaries of self, allowing ourselves connection to the natural ecosystem of our community.

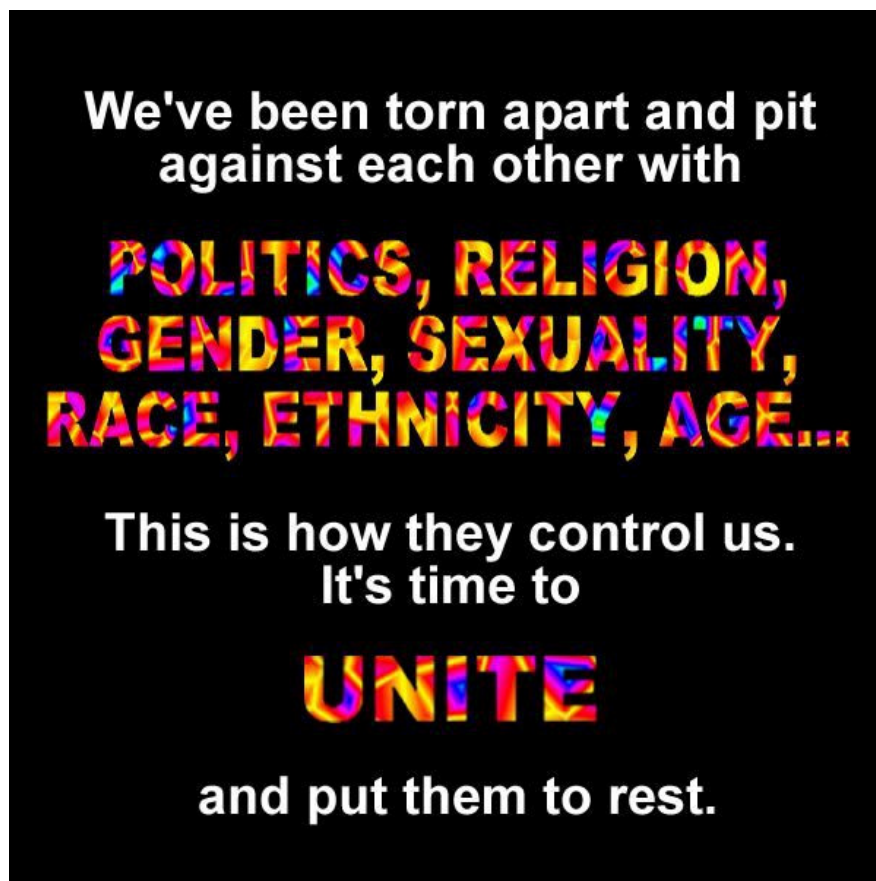

Daniel Joseph Boorstin, a brilliant de-bunker of celebrity, of the absurdities of materialism and the ruinous contradictions of acquiring status through material objects, was summoned before the House Un-American Activities Committee and accused of being a communist.

"Nearly everything we do to make life more interesting, more varied, more exciting, more fabulous, more promising, in the long run, has an opposite effect." - Daniel J. Boorstin

Daniel J. Boorstin writings had un-American activities in mind: to undermine gratuitous consumption through intellectual sabotage.

"Consumer product producers empower kids as shoppers legitimizing their uninformed tastes, mercurial wants and detaching them from their gatekeeper mothers, fathers, teachers and pastors." - Benjamin R. Barber

Social control through ideological division

A simple way to control a population is to divide that population into diametrically opposed ideological camps.

"Washington's criminal class is bipartisan." - Stephen Lendman

"I have been saying for the some time now that America has only one party - the property party. It's the party of big corporation, the party of money. It has two right wings; one is Democrat and the other is Republican." - Gore Vidal

The easiest way to control a population is to turn one segment of the population against another.

All you have do is find divisive issues like - eugenics, the death penalty, homosexuality, gun control, permanent war, transsexuality, transhumanism, etc. partitions the population into fragments which battle each other while leaving the rapacious corporate agenda unchecked.

Ideological division, although working well, does not work swiftly.

The best time to divide a unified target population is by taking advantage of an upheaval.

When the Army Corp of Engineers dredged the MRGO on the lower Mississippi river, a straight channel cut through the bayou to accommodate supertankers, they surely must have known that a large hurricane focused on the mouth of the Mississippi River Basin would send a storm surge of Hurricane Katrina directly into the core of New Orleans. (redevelopment ?)

2005 "In the case of the war on Iraq fully 60% of the Americans want America to pull out some or all of the troops. The Democrats - John Forbes Kerry, Howard Dean, Hillary Clinton - are calling for "staying the course and even sending more troops. The Democrats are beholden to the same special interests as the Republicans: oil tycoons, barons of the military-industrial-corporate media-corporate complex and those that thrive on empire, from the major banks to Bechtel and Halliburton. Senator Dianne Feinstein (net worth between $43,341,462 and $98,630,021 in 2005), is for "staying the course." Antiwar sentiment is solid in California, yet she refuses to embrace it even though it would strengthen, not weaken, her. No, the Democrats are simply the other war party." - John Walsh

Corporate interests have hijacked our political system.

"Paradigms of Republican vs. Democrat or Conservative vs. Progressive have been designed for obfuscation and entertainment." - Catherine Austin Fitts

"The thought police of the Democratic and Republican establishments get to foment political witch hunts while pretending they somehow stand above ideology." - Emanuele Saccarelli

"By electing pro-war Republicans and Democrats for office, we effectively choose bombs, bullets and death instead of healthcare and public transportation." - Stacy Bermingham

"Important decisions are not being made on the basis of what is best for America, for the democracy or for taxpayers, but what is best for a corporation or for the financial coffers of those in government who believe that being elected or appointed to public office provides the very best cover for the attainment of personal riches." - Lewis Redding

"Opposition, n. - in politics the party that prevents the government from running amuck by hamstringing it." - Ambrose Bierce.

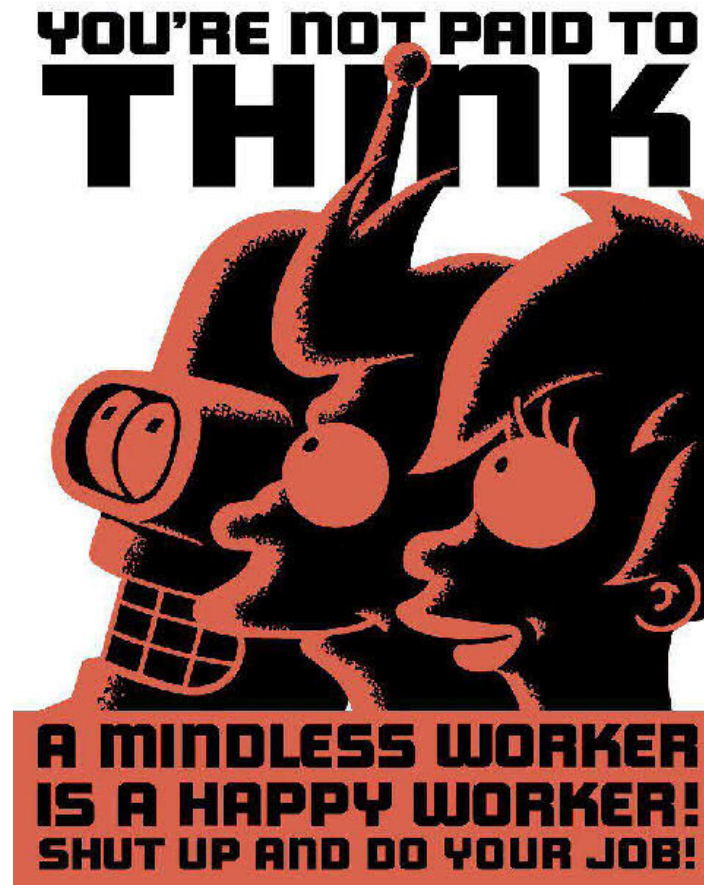

"Our two-party system is a fraud, a sham, a delusion. On foreign policy, trade, immigration, Big Government, we have one-party government, one party press; conservatives are being played for suckers." - Patrick J Buchanan

Myth:

Religious and corporate interests dominate Republican war party.

Government employee associations and unions, minority interests, immigration interests, sexual orientation interests and feminist interests dominate the Democratic war party.

The truth is since 2008 both are running blindly working to fulfill short term corporate needs while many individual members are corruptly increasing their personal wealth through their position in government.

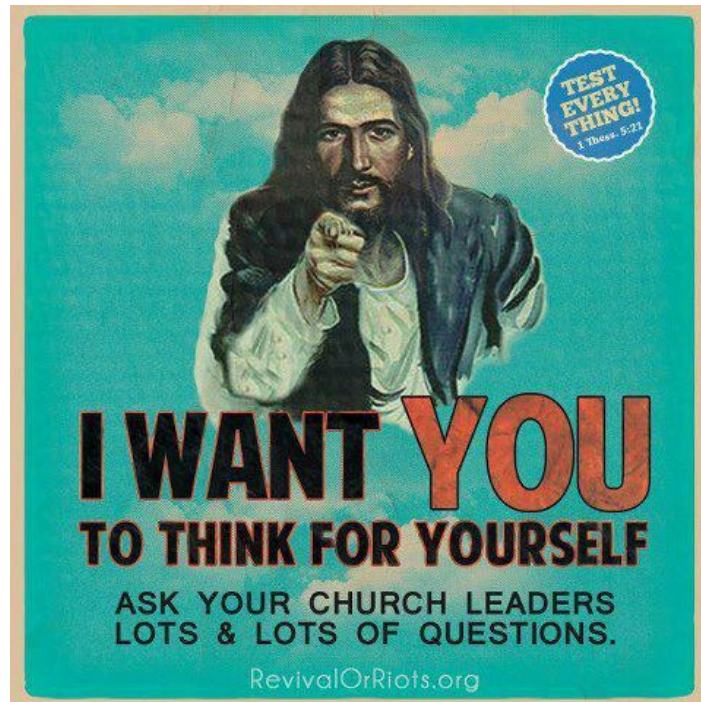

Liberals want the government to be your Mommy.

Conservatives want government to be your Daddy.

Libertarians want it to treat you like an adult.

"Left-wing politicians take away liberty in the name of children and fighting poverty, while right-wing politicians do it in the name of family values and fighting drugs." – Harry Browne

Social control through religion

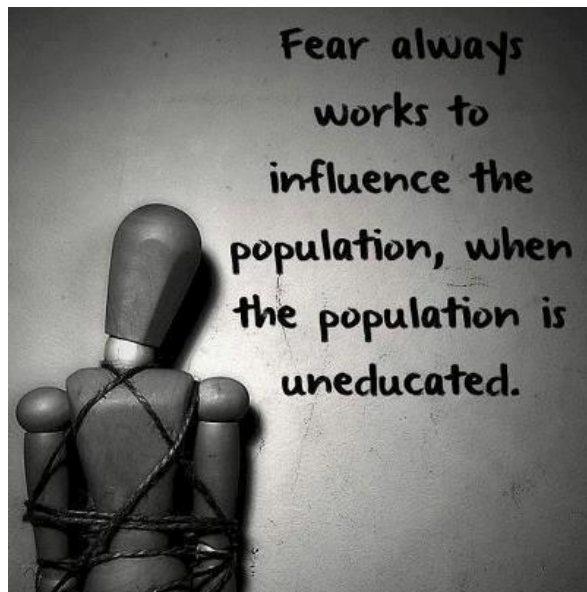

Is institutionalized religion necessary to create a moral person?

social control
through fear and anger

"The crowd neither wants nor seeks knowledge, the leaders of the crowd, in their own interests, strengthen fear and dislike of everything new and unknown. The slavery in which mankind lives is based upon this fear." - Georges Ivanovitch Gurdjieff

"The whole aim of practical politics is to keep the populace alarmed - and hence clamorous to be led to safety - and menacing it with an endless series of hobgoblins, all of them imaginary." - H.L. Mencken

"There are enough discrepancies and unanswered questions in the 911 Commission Report that under a friendly administration, the 911 investigation should be re-opened." - Robert Baer

"I am forced to conclude that 911 was at a minimum allowed to happen as a pretext for war." - Robert David Steele

"It is as a scientist that I have the most trouble with the official government conspiracy theory, mainly because it does not satisfy the rules of probability or physics. The collapses of the World Trade Center buildings clearly violate the laws of probability and physics." - Lt. Col. Karen Kwiatkowski

"We have an absolute requirement to know what happened on 911. And no stone should be left unturned. And the 911 Commission Report was not up to the task.

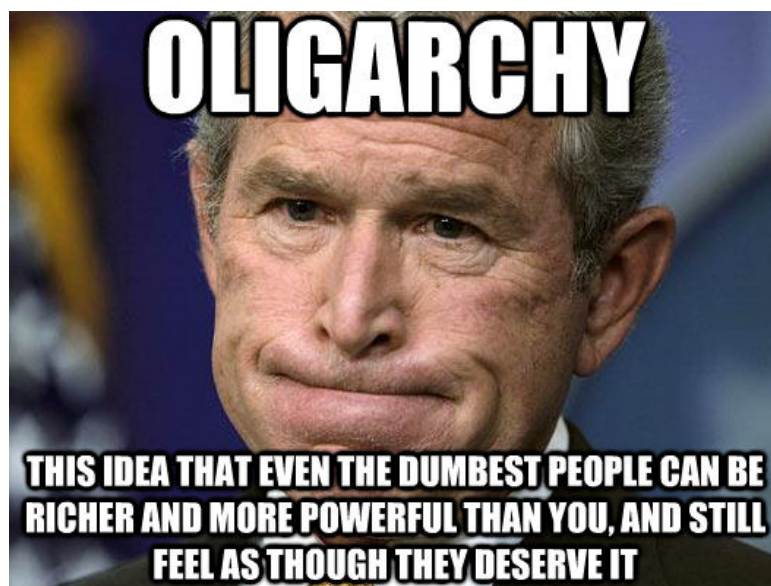

And there must be a re-opening of the investigation, so that we the people of the US know what occurred on that horrific day." - Maj. Scott Ritter

Most Americans have very little to fear from foreign terrorists.

If you happen to work in a monumental building that has become an icon or archetype of American wealth and ideology you may rightly fear terrorists.

The Twin Towers of the World Trade Center were just such as icon.

Patriotic Americans mourn the slaughter of the innocent men and women that were ruthlessly murdered. Patriotic Americans rue the use of the death of innocent men and women as a cynical tool to manipulate public opinion.

The Politics of Fear

"We are on the verge of a global transformation. All we need is the right major crisis and the nations will accept the New World Order" - David Rockefeller

"In a market-driven plutocracy shamelessly parading as a by-the-people democracy, moving toward true justice is virtually impossible." - Frederic E. Bloomquist

"Scholars and professionals with various kinds of expertise -- including architects, engineers, firefighters, intelligence officers, lawyers, medical professionals, military officers, philosophers, religious leaders, physical scientists, and pilots -- have spoken out about radical discrepancies between the official account of the 911 attacks and what they, as independent researchers, have learned." - Lt. Col. Robert Bowman

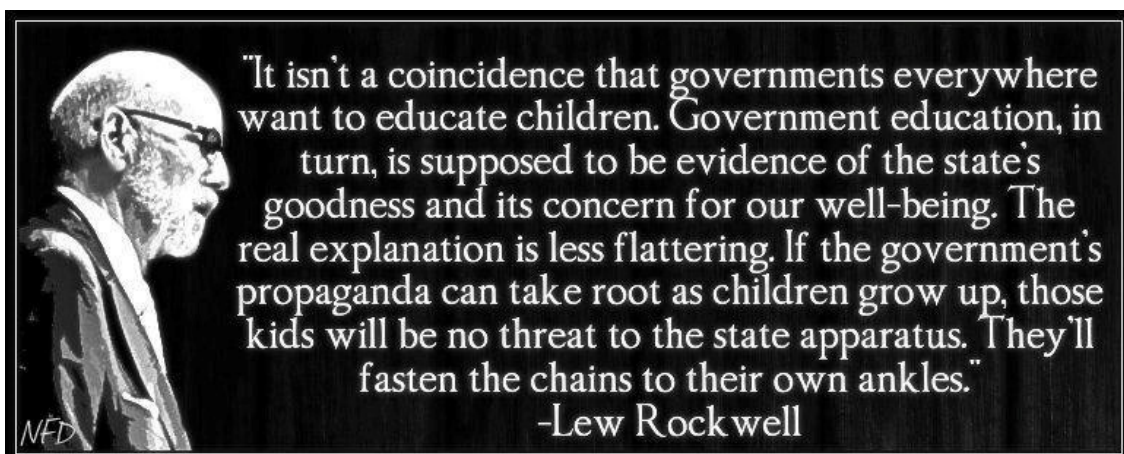

Social control through drugs

A person can have a response to a placebo. The response can be positive or negative and these responses depend entirely on the expectations of the patient undergoing placebo therapy. Addiction is directly related to placebo theory.

Water soluble manufactured chemicals are addictive in that our body responds in a certain manner to neutralize the toxin and wash it out. Our brain responds in different ways to each enzyme system poisoning chemical. We become used to the way we "feel" when undergoing chemical therapy and go into "withdrawal" as our body attempts to return to natural equilibrium.

Our bodies have been programmed by prior chemical poisonings to respond to "medical stimulation". With a placebo if we expect results we soon feel them. A person centered and grounded in their own body will not be affected by a placebo but they will be affected by chemical poisoning whereas a bodily detached person is more likely to benefit from a placebo effect.

Most allopathic chemical poisonings pretending to be cures use a combination of actual chemical poisoning and a subliminal subconscious programming that acts in the manner of the placebo to change conscious expectations.

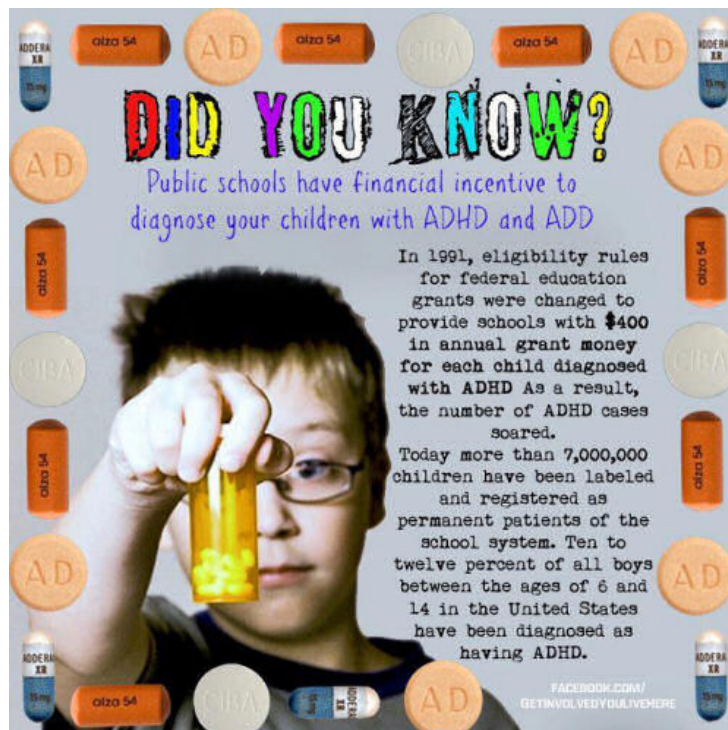

social control through public education

"Whenever is found what is called a paternal government, there is found State education. It has been discovered that the best way to ensure implicit obedience is to commence tyranny in the nursery." – Benjamin Disraeli

"The aim of public education is not to spread enlightenment at all, it is simply to reduce as many individuals as possible to the same safe level, to breed and train a standardized citizenry, to put down dissent and originality." – H L. Mencken

"I've since come to understand the reason school lasts thirteen years. It takes that long to sufficiently break a child's will. It is not easy to disconnect children's wills, to disconnect them from their own experiences of the world in preparation for the lives of painful employment they will have to endure."- Derrick Jensen

Andrew Carnegie writes a series of eleven essays called "The Gospel of Wealth", a treatise which essentially stated that free enterprise and capitalism no longer existed in the US, because he and Rockefeller owned everything, including the government, and that competition was impossible unless they allowed it.

Andrew Carnegie claims eventually even young children will become aware of this and form clandestine organizations to fight against it.

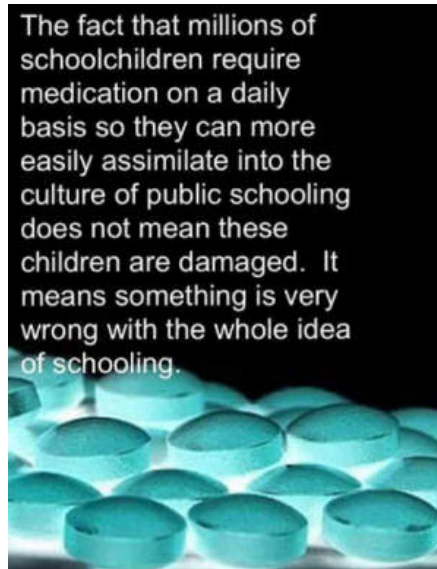

Andrew Carnegie proposes that men of wealth form a synthetic free enterprise system based on cradle-to-grave schooling. The people who advanced through schooling would be given licenses to lead profitable lives. All licenses are tied to forms of schooling. This way, the entire economy can be controlled and people have a motivation for them to learn what you want them to learn. It also places the minds of all children in the hands of a few social engineers.

"In our dreams people yield themselves with perfect docility to our molding hands. We shall not try to make these people or any of their children into philosophers or men of learning or men of science. We have not to raise up from among them authors, educators, poets, or men of letters. We shall not search for embryo great artists, painters, musicians, nor lawyers, doctors, preachers, politicians, statesmen, of whom we have ample supply. The task we set before ourselves is very simple. . . we will organize children . . . and teach them to do in a perfect way the things their fathers and mothers are doing in an imperfect way." - General Education Board

"Every child in America entering school at the age of five is insane because he comes to school with certain allegiances toward our Founding Fathers, toward his parents, toward a belief in a supernatural being, toward the sovereignty of this nation as a separate entity. It's up to you teachers to make all of these sick children well by creating the international children of the future." - Dr. Chester M. Pierce, Professor of Education and Psychiatry, Medicine and Graduate School of Education, Harvard University, address Association for Childhood Education International in Denver

The fact that millions of schoolchildren require medication on a daily basis so they can more easily assimilate into the culture of public schooling does not mean these children are damaged. It means something is very wrong with the whole idea of schooling.

"There is wide use of drugs to medicate boys, especially, against their natural tendency toward action, the better to "keep things on track." I taught briefly in a public high school and would have loved to have set up a Ritalin fogger in my classroom. It is a rare person, male or female, who is naturally inclined to sit still for 17 years in school, and then indefinitely at work." - Matthew B. Crawford

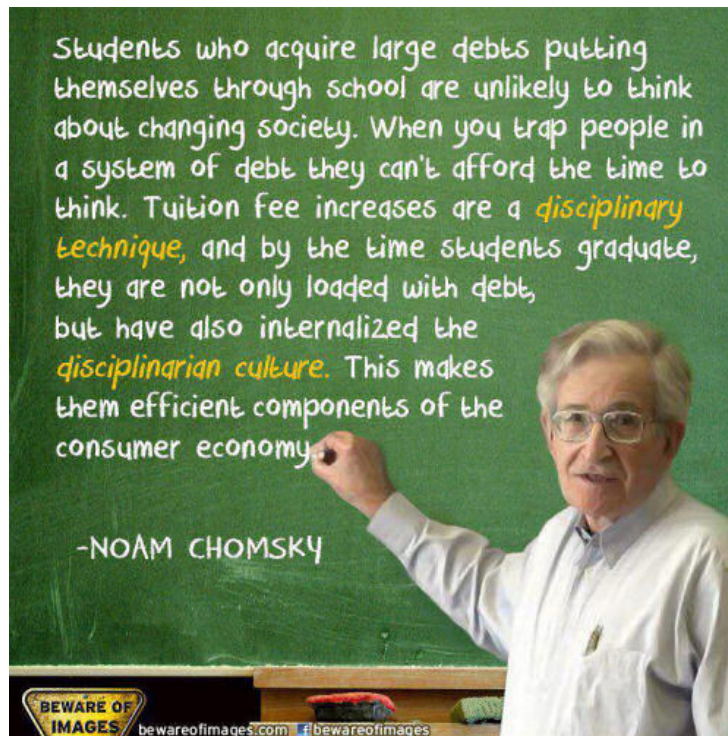

"In the 1940s a survey listed the top seven discipline problems in public schools: talking, chewing gum, making noise, running in the halls, getting out of turn in line, wearing improper clothes, not putting paper in wastebaskets. A 1980s survey lists these top seven: drug abuse, alcohol abuse, pregnancy, suicide, rape, robbery, assault." - George F. Will (World War II, Korean War, Vietnam War)

Using public schools (prisons) as academic institutions for social control makes them de facto criminal psychiatric facilities, depriving children of liberty and, in some cases, labeling them with a psychiatric diagnosis in order to facilitate current and future social control. School administrators, teachers, child psychiatrists, child psychologists, social workers, grief counselors, the pharmaceutical industry and the many other businesses that profit from the education racket are not the friends of children as they proclaim. The economic and existential self-interests of these do-gooders are inimical to real education and rational discipline.

Supreme Court decision declares students are not protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States:

"Early public schools were not places for freewheeling debates or exploration of competing ideas. Rather, teachers instilled "a core of common values". In the earliest public schools, teachers taught, and students listened. Teachers commanded, and students obeyed. Teachers did not rely solely on the power of ideas to persuade; they relied on discipline to maintain order. To meet their educational objectives, schools require absolute obedience." - Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas

"The whole realm of thought and opinion is utterly unsuited to social control; it ought to be as free, and as spontaneous as is possible. The state is justified in insisting that children shall be educated, but it is not justified in forcing their education to proceed on a uniform plan and to be directed to the production of a dead level of glib uniformity." - Bertrand Russell

"As a third-grade teacher, I see the problems with the one-size-fits-all system. We are losing so many students. There used to be many options for high school students - vocational education, auto shop, graphic design classes, home economics. Now, with the current thinking that all students must go through a college preparatory program in high school, many are choosing to drop out. If they could have other options, they too could make many successful contributions to society. We still need plumbers, electricians and auto mechanics, so why not provide these classes for students who have no intention of going to college but are interested in these careers." - Susan Branman

This website defines a new perspective with which to engage reality to which its author adheres. The author feels that the falsification of reality outside personal experience has created a populace unable to discern propaganda from reality and that this has been done purposefully by an international corporate cartel through their agents who wish to foist a corrupt version of reality on the human race. Religious intolerance occurs when any group refuses to tolerate religious practices, religious beliefs or persons due to their religious ideology. This web site marks the founding of a system of philosophy named The Truth of the Way of Life - a rational gnostic mystery religion based on reason which requires no leap of faith, accepts no tithes, has no supreme leader, no church buildings and in which each and every individual is encouraged to develop a personal relation with the Creator and Sustainer through the pursuit of the knowledge of reality in the hope of curing the spiritual corruption that has enveloped the human spirit. The tenets of The Truth of the Way of Life are spelled out in detail on this web site by the author. Violent acts against individuals due to their religious beliefs in America is considered a "hate crime."

This web site in no way condones violence. To the contrary the intent here is to reduce the violence that is already occurring due to the international corporate cartels desire to control the human race. The international corporate cartel already controls the world economic system, corporate media worldwide, the global industrial military entertainment complex and is responsible for the collapse of morals, the elevation of self-centered behavior and the destruction of global ecosystems. Civilization is based on cooperation. Cooperation does not occur at the point of a gun.

American social mores and values have declined precipitously over the last century as the corrupt international cartel has garnered more and more power. This power rests in the ability to deceive the populace in general through corporate media by pressing emotional buttons which have been preprogrammed into the population through prior corporate media psychological operations. The results have been the destruction of the family and the destruction of social structures that do not adhere to the corrupt international elites vision of a perfect world. Through distraction and coercion the direction of thought of the bulk of the population has been directed toward solutions proposed by the corrupt international elite that further consolidates their power and which further their purposes.
